April 6-12 is National Public Health Week (NPHW). The American Public Health Association (APHA) brings together communities across the United States to recognize the contributions of public health, including awareness, prevention and by highlighting important issues to help improve our nation.

Today, we are taking this opportunity to recognize essential workers including healthcare staff, first responders, public and mental health professionals, grocery store clerks, gas station attendants, postal employees, food service workers, delivery drivers, auto mechanics, and many more who are working to keep St. Clair County healthy and safe during this crisis. You are appreciated!

On behalf of the St. Clair County Emergency Operations Center and Joint Information Center, we would like to thank our residents who continue to follow public health guidance and recommendations. The COVID-19 situation has been difficult for everyone. The sacrifices and dedication of our residents who are staying home, practicing social distancing, going without non-essential items, and taking other safety precautions is commendable.

We appreciate everyone's efforts. St. Clair County, you are all making a difference in slowing the spread of COVID-19!
